

Paul's First Missionary Journey

Paul's Second Missionary Journey

Paul's Third Missionary Journey

This map illustrates the journey of Paul from Jerusalem to Rome, following the route described in Acts 13-28. The journey begins in Jerusalem, travels north through Caesarea, Sidon, and Tyre to Paphos, then continues to Myra, Patmos, and Athens. From Athens, Paul travels to Rome. The map shows modern-day borders and names, as well as ancient names. Key locations include Jerusalem, Caesarea, Sidon, Tyre, Paphos, Myra, Patmos, Athens, and Rome. The map also shows the Euphrates River, the Nile River, and the Black Sea. A scale bar indicates 300 miles and 300 kilometers. A compass rose shows North, South, East, and West.

Starting Point of the Journey

Modern Day Borders

0 300 Miles

0 300 Kilometers